Description	The capacity development technical assistance (TA) will support the implementation of the government's KALAHI_CIDSS National Community-Driven Development Project (KC-NCDDP). The KC-NCDDP is the government's flagship program, which aims to improve access to basic services, reduce poverty, and support the recovery and rehabilitation efforts in communities affected by Typhoon Yolanda (international name: Haiyan).
Project Rationale and Linkage to Country/Regional Strategy	The TA will support the capacity building and institutional support component of the KC-NCDDP, particularly within the context of using the community-driven development approach in responding to the post-disaster needs of communities. In coordination with other development partners, the TA will assist DSWD in managing the needed capacity building interventions that (i) emphasize needs-based training programs; (ii) respond to program management needs; (iii) develop and sustain institutional capacity for planning and management of training programs; and (iv) strengthen national and subnational capacity to promote, monitor, assist, and evaluate decentralized training programs. In the aftermath of Typhoon Yolanda, the TA will help build and deepen capacities further for timely implementation of not only ADB supported activities, but also those of other development partners. In addition, the TA will help identify ARMM's capacity development needs for future rollout of the KC-NCDDP. Furthermore, the TA will generate knowledge and replicable practices that will help inform ADB's engagement in social development programs with other developing member countries.
Impact	Improved implementation of the KC-NCDDP

Project Outcome

Description of Outcome	Improved competencies of program staff and stakeholders to implement the KC-NCDDP
Progress Toward Outcome	In March 2016, ADB and the EA looked into the progress of TA implementation and revisited the TA work plan in relation to program requirements. The EA proposed to streamline the TA activities, include additional consulting inputs for the new activities, and further extend the TA completion until 2018. It was also agreed to facilitate TA implementation to immediately deliver the TA outputs and support the urgent capacity building requirements of KC-NCDDP.

Implementation Progress

Description of Project Outputs	1. Learning and development (L&D) framework established 2. Curriculum design and learning modules completed 3. Institutional support systems established
Status of Implementation Progress (Outputs, Activities, and Issues)	1. Learning and development (L&D) framework established The TA supports ongoing engagement with the EA's key program staff to enhance the learning and development (L&D) framework. The enhanced framework will provide strategic direction for developing the required competencies of program staff and stakeholders to support KC-NCDDP implementation until 2019. Ongoing activities include a review of DSWD competency model and validation of competencies of key program staff (area coordinators and sub-regional program coordinators). A competency survey was conducted in November 2016 to determine competency gaps that can be addressed by learning interventions. The survey results are currently under review. 2. Curriculum design and learning modules completed The TA has prepared training modules and materials on community-based procurement, community finance, safeguards, and M&E which will be used by area coordinating teams to train community volunteers to prepare them for succeeding implementation cycles of KC-NCDDP. Learning modules on participatory local governance, including guidance notes on barangay development planning, are being finalized. 3. Institutional support systems established The TA is supporting the establishment of an e-learning system which includes digitization and deployment of project manuals through mobile devices, and online query functions. The system will be rolled out by Q2 2017.

Business Opportunities

Consulting Services	ADB engaged consultants in accordance with ADB's Guidelines on the Use of Consultants (2013, as amended from time to time). To provide the TA with flexibility to mobilize expertise as the NCDDP evolves, the terms of reference and selection criteria for 15 person-months of national consulting services _ in areas including but not limited to financial management, L&D modules, and systems design and programming _ will be determined during project implementation. The activity costs related to workshops, training, seminars, and conferences and studies will be administered by the consultants. All procurements will be done in accordance with ADB's Procurement Guidelines (2013, as amended from time to time).
