Description	The regional technical assistance (TA) will be designed and implemented under the framework of an ongoing UNDP study of low carbon development. The TA will assist the People's Republic of China and India in determining optimum low carbon development paths by implementing a program of collaborative studies based on economic, social and environmental considerations, with a focus on the issues of technology innovation and dissemination, and financing. Case studies at sub-national level will be conducted to provide lessons learned and recommend good models for low carbon development.
Project Rationale and Linkage to Country/Regional Strategy
Impact	Low carbon development paths established in the selected sectors in PRC and India, and promoted South-South cooperation between the two countries
