INITIAL POVERTY AND SOCIAL ANALYSIS

Lending/Financing Modality:	Results-based lending	Department/ Division:	Southeast Asia Department / Urban Development and Water Division
I. POVERTY IMPACT AND SOCIAL DIMENSIONS
A. Links to the Na	tional Poverty Reduction Strate	gy and Countr	y Partnership Strategy
Viet Nam has progressed well toward reducing poverty, with poverty incidence declining from 58% in 1993 to 11% in 2010. However, the poverty incidence varies significantly across regions. It is low in the southeast, Red River and Mekong deltas, and south central coast, but high in the northern mountains, north central coast, and central highlands. The poor are vulnerable to environmental degradation, disaster risks and climate change effects. Industrialization, urbanization, and agricultural intensification have had harmful effects on land and water. Continued discharges of untreated waste to water and soil threaten water safety and thereby food security and reliable energy supplies.
B. Poverty Targeting
General Intervention Individual or Household (TI-H) Geographic (TI-G) Non-Income MDGs (TI-M1, M2, etc.)
The proposed project will generally improve the living conditions of those who live in the project cities by providing new/ upgraded urban infrastructure and municipal services. Improved urban infrastructure and services will also increase economic opportunities for people live in the project cities, leading to poverty reduction. C. Poverty and Social Analysis

PARTICIPATION AND EMPOWERMENT

III. PARTICIPATION AND EMPOWERMENT
1. Who are the main stakeholders of the program, including beneficiaries and negatively affected people? Identify how they will participate in the program design.
The project will benefit the city population, however directly affected people will be known once the subprojects are identified. The PPTA terms of reference emphasizes public consultations which are mandatory to identifying and consulting all stakeholders which will determine the mitigating action plans for the affected people. This will be jointly conducted to comply with safeguards requirements. Participatory stakeholder analysis will be conducted in each city with the project beneficiaries (the residents of these three towns), and established civil society organizations with strong community connections included as stakeholders.
2. How can the program contribute (in a systemic way) to engaging and empowering stakeholders and beneficiaries, particularly, the poor, vulnerable and excluded groups? What issues in the program design require participation of the poor and excluded?
The project will engage and empower stakeholders through consultation meetings and community awareness programs. The project will provide employment potential through project based interventions based on their needs and interests and community awareness programs for the urban poor and other vulnerable groups including women.
3. What are the key, active, and relevant in the program area? What is the level of CSO participation in the program design?
The cities have strong Womens Unions who work in a collaborative partnership for consultations and information gathering and sharing during the project design and implementation, and support of community awareness Information generation and sharing (M) \boxtimes Consultation (H) \boxtimes Collaboration (H) \boxtimes Partnership (H)
4. Are there issues during program design for which participation of the poor and excluded is important? What are they and how will they be addressed? 🛛 Yes 🔤 No
There are issues for which the poor, minorities and excluded are important. Lack of services and exposure to disaster risk affect the poor disproportionately, and therefore, they will be an integral part of the discussions about the solutions such as strengthening institutional capacity of community in environment planning and climate resilience.
The PPTA will identify specific issues and solutions for the inclusion of the poor and excluded.
