Description	The Small Scale Capacity Development Technical Assistance (S-CDTA) supports capacity development of the University of the South Pacific (USP) to assess and plan higher education sector development in the Solomon Islands.
Project Rationale and Linkage to Country/Regional Strategy	The ADB's engagement with the education sector in the Pacific and the USP identified a critical importance for USP to optimize complementarity between programs offered by USP and national higher education institutions. By building capacity to objectively assess demand for higher education in each country and to develop a country specific strategy and plan for higher education development, it is anticipated that USP will be able to engage in future such assessments and plans when considering regional campus programs and expansion.
Impact	Enhanced capacity of USP to assess investment priorities and plan for higher education development in the region
