Project Description

According to the Bank's website, the TA will support capacity building for financial institutions in South and Southeast Asian DMCs to enable the finance sector to increase investment flows to sustainable finance projects. It will also support activities designed to build a pipeline of aligned financial institution investment projects, as well as to prepare funding applications, conduct due diligence, and support the bankability of ADB private sector investments, including blended finance from the CTF Financial Institutions Program.

The TA will support financial institutions in the region through technical expertise, advisory services, and other development activities that promote the implementation of more robust sustainable finance strategies by financial institutions and contribute to increase financing flows toward reaching NDC targets in the selected countries. This could include developing new financial products, such as green bonds or sustainability-linked loans, and growing the share of financial institution lending deemed "sustainability aligned." TA funding could also be deployed to support financial institutions' implementation of sustainability priorities, including (i) product design, and related training and awareness building to launch new products to market; (ii) developing reporting frameworks for sustainable loan or bond implementation; (iii) applying tools to track and reports on energy usage; (iv) designing credible financial institution sector and region portfolio exposure risk maps and associated risk management measures; and (v) fostering capacity building through knowledge partnerships between financial institutions and other stakeholders, such as project developers, bond framework verifiers, and other technical support providers.
