Project Description

The Asian Development Bank (ADB) will establish and administer the Nature-Based Materials Market Development Platform technical assistance (TA) to accelerate private sector investment in carbon-positive nature-based solutions across developing member countries (DMCs). Nature-based materials derived from fast-growing crops and renewable biological resources including bamboo present a transformative opportunity to drive climate action, foster economic development, and stimulate private sector growth. The TA will develop functioning markets through ecosystem assessment, pilot validation, and scalable partnership platform creation that mobilizes risk capital to accelerate growth of the nature-based material industry.
