Project Description

As stated by the DFC, the project consists of a loan portfolio guaranty with 50% coverage to increase the Guaranteed Party's ability to provide loans to individuals, cooperatives, and SMEs in the agricultural value chain in Kenya, thereby stimulating economic growth.

Access to finance is a challenge for SMEs in Kenya, which face an annual financing gap of $18.2 billion. SMEs in the agricultural sector face additional challenges securing access to financial products that are tailored to their specific needs, for example, loans for high-quality, unadulterated agricultural inputs. While the agricultural sector contributes between 20% and 30% of GDP in East African countries, it receives only between 2% and 7% of total bank credit. Access to finance for women-owned/led SMEs in the agricultural sector is especially challenging, since most programs designed to support women entrepreneurs accessing credit focus on non-agricultural activities.

In response to these challenges, the Project is expected to have a positive development impact in Kenya by de-risking the Co-operative Bank of Kenya's lending to SMEs and cooperatives in the agricultural sector, allowing the Bank to increase its lending in the sector, and increasing access to finance and high-quality agricultural inputs for SMEs. DFC has qualified the Project as 2X based on the Borrower's intent to exceed the 2X criteria for women representation in employment, and the percentage of Project proceeds allocated to 2X eligible portfolio companies. The Project is expected to allocate 34% of proceeds to women-owned/led SMEs in the agricultural sector.

Investment Description

- US International Development Finance Corporation (DFC)

Financial Intermediary

Financial Intermediary: A commercial bank or financial institution that receives funds from a development bank. A financial intermediary then lends these funds to their clients (private actors) in the form of loans, bonds, guarantees and equity shares. Financial intermediaries include insurance, pension and equity funds. The direct financial relationship is between the development bank and the financial intermediary.
