Project Description

The Malawi Strengthening Inclusive Markets for Agriculture (MSIKA) is a five-year, $17 million value chain development project designed to support the productivity, value addition and processing of various value chains under fruits and vegetables. These include mangoes, citrus, guava, potatoes, tomatoes, onions and chilies. MSIKA promotes increased value addition and income for several value chain actors by facilitating improved processing, increased crop productivity, improved post-harvest handling and storage of the aforementioned value chains. In addition, the project helps expand markets, create more efficient domestic trade, and increase potential exports of processed products in the long term. The loans may be used for various categories including primary growing, processing and transportation and general working capital.
