Project Description

The Africa Renewable Energy Fund II ("AREF II") is a private equity fund investing in clean energy generating assets across Sub-Saharan Africa (excluding South Africa). The fund is managed by Berkeley Energy (the "Fund Manager") and is expected to reach first close in 2020, having development finance institutions including FMO as anchor investors. AREF II is the follow-on fund of the Africa Renewable Energy Fund ("AREF"), in which FMO invested in 2014.

FMO's investment in the Africa Renewable Energy Fund II will come from two government funds, Access to Energy Fund ("AEF") and Building Prospects Fund ("BPF"). The funding objective is to deploy capital towards investments that deliver social and environmental benefits as well as financial returns. The AREF II investment mandate is focused on renewable energy generation in Africa, and as such the fund will play an important role in the support to the transition to clean energy as well as increasing access to energy in underserved and challenging markets. The Fund Manager has a unique blend of team skills, experience and networks allowing for a compelling proposition.

By investing in the Africa Renewable Energy Fund II, FMO seeks to address the market need for energy in Africa in a sustainable and responsible manner, by increasing the production of clean energy. FMO will play an anchor investor role in AREF II. A successful final closing of the fund means that more risk capital is available for renewable energy and clean technologies in Africa, which is fully in line with FMO's investment strategy. Also, most of AREF II target countries are included in the United Nation's list of Least Developed Countries ("LDC"). Supporting investments in LDCs is one of the core strategies of FMO, AEF and BPF. Finally, by investing in the fund FMO demonstrates continued support towards Berkeley Energy as one of FMO's key fund managers.
