Project Description

According to bank provided information, FMO intends to participate for up to EUR 12 million in a long-term facility led by IFC. The proposed Project will finance permanent working capital and capital expenditures to support the Company's strategy to increase its sales of bottled olive oil.

CHO's overall goals through this Project are its contribution to preserving linkages with farmers, maintaining jobs, and domestic value addition. The Project's contribution to market resilience will be through building capacity along the supply chain, demonstrating improved business practices to other sector players, and enabling positive spillovers across the sector by maintaining operations during a tumultuous economic period. The investment also contributes to financial additionality through long-term tenor and currency.
