Project Description

Cooperatief CI2 Construction Equity Fund U.A. ("CEF") is being raised by Climate Fund Managers ("CFM") as part of the Climate Investor 2 ("CI2") initiative. CFM was established in 2015 as a joint venture between FMO, the development finance institution of the Netherlands, and Sanlam Infracore, a platform company of the Sanlam Group, one of Africa's leading financial services groups. CFM is a strategic initiative to support the raising of public and private capital for climate finance in a blended structure and at scale, while addressing a number of bottlenecks in financing climate related infrastructure, notably lack of well-developed assets and the long timelines involved in obtaining project finance for construction.

Climate Investor 2 invests in the development, construction, and operation of infrastructure projects in the Water, Sanitation and Oceans sectors in emerging markets globally, taking environmentally and social returns carefully into account in addition to the financial returns. CI2 aims to predominantly finance projects in the water treatment & supply, wastewater treatment and waste-to-energy sectors in eligible countries in Asia, Africa and Latin America.
