Project Description

According to the FMO, the proposed RDC fits well with MFF's mandate as AN's business model involves the afforestation of degraded ecosystems to deliver climate change mitigation outcomes, whilst supporting local economic development. AN is being delivered by a highly credible partnership between a local forestry operator with proven track record and deep knowledge of the Colombian context, and an international carbon project developer with experience, resources and a large network of potential funders and carbon credit off-takers. AN also presents an opportunity for FMO to gain exposure to the native species plantations, seen as an important emerging area in forestry for the protection and enhancement of biodiversity. The RDC will also give FMO a preferential first right of refusal to invest in the scale-up phase, through which it can earn both a financial return and achieve climate and other development impacts at scale.

ACCOUNTABILITY MECHANISM OF FMO

Communities who believe they will be negatively affected by a project funded by the Dutch Development Bank (FMO) may be able to file a complaint with the Independent Complaints Mechanism, which is the joint independent accountability mechanism of the Dutch Development Bank (FMO) and the German Investment Corporation (KfW). A complaint can be filed in writing, by email, post, or online. The complaint can be filed in English or any other language of the complainant. The Independent Complaints Mechanism is comprised of a three-member Independent Expert Panel and it can provide either problem-solving, compliance review or both, in either order. Additional information about this accountability mechanism, including a guide and template for filing a complaint, can be found at: <https://www.fmo.nl/independent-complaints-mechanism>
