Project Description

According to the Bank's website, the objective of the project is to provide improved access to water in rural communities in the mesothermal valleys, Chaco and Chiquitania regions in Bolivia, through the financing of gray infrastructure works and the establishment of environmental conservation agreements, which improve the quality of water sources. The project will comprehensively address water management, merging conservation and development of access infrastructures, with a focus on financial sustainability and strengthening rural communities in Bolivia, in the operation, maintenance of water systems and in the conservation of water sources.

Early Warning System Project Analysis

The project involves the construction of water systems that combine green infrastructure (forest conservation) and gray infrastructure (dams and pipelines). It is a Category B project under the IDB's Environmental and Social Policy Framework because it may have specific, localized, and limited environmental, health, and safety risks and impacts, which can be avoided or mitigated by complying with generally recognized environmental, health, and safety performance standards and international industry best practices. Potential environmental, health, and safety risks and impacts associated with the transaction include (i) adequate working conditions, including occupational health and safety ("OHS"), for the contractors' direct and indirect employees; (ii) waste management; (iii) handling of hazardous materials; and (iv) potential negative impacts on local biodiversity and ecosystem services while the gray infrastructure is being developed.

ACCOUNTABILITY MECHANISM OF IADB

The Independent Consultation and Investigation Mechanism (MICI) is the independent complaint mechanism and fact-finding body for people who have been or are likely to be adversely affected by an Inter-American Development Bank (IDB) or Inter-American Investment Corporation (IIC)-funded project. If you submit a complaint to MICI, they may assist you in addressing the problems you raised through a dispute-resolution process with those implementing the project and/or through an investigation to assess whether the IDB or IIC is following its own policies for preventing or mitigating harm to people or the environment. You can submit a complaint by sending an email to MICI@iadb.org. You can learn more about the MICI and how to file a complaint at <http://www.iadb.org/en/mici/mici,1752.html> (in English) or <http://www.iadb.org/es/mici/mici,1752.html> (Spanish).
