Project Description

From the IDB: "Our study is the first to examine parenting practices in skipped-generation households in the Northern Triangle, and will analyze the effectiveness of parental training and social coping strategies on early learning outcomes. The objective is two-fold: (i) to understand the context of skipped-generation households in the Northern Triangle; and (ii) identify effective education interventions to assist this large group of children. The specific objective is to assess the cost-effectiveness of support to skipped-generation households with social coping strategies (Group I) vis-à-vis social coping strategy support combined with parental training (Group II). The project will be evaluated through a Randomized Control Trial (RCT), contrasting any changes in learning of children in the treatment groups with children from a group of comparison households."

ACCOUNTABILITY MECHANISM OF IADB

The Independent Consultation and Investigation Mechanism (MICI) is the independent complaint mechanism and fact-finding body for people who have been or are likely to be adversely affected by an Inter-American Development Bank (IDB) or Inter-American Investment Corporation (IIC)-funded project. If you submit a complaint to MICI, they may assist you in addressing the problems you raised through a dispute-resolution process with those implementing the project and/or through an investigation to assess whether the IDB or IIC is following its own policies for preventing or mitigating harm to people or the environment. You can submit a complaint by sending an email to MICI@iadb.org. You can learn more about the MICI and how to file a complaint at <http://www.iadb.org/en/mici/mici,1752.html> (in English) or <http://www.iadb.org/es/mici/mici,1752.html> (Spanish).
