Project Description

The Inter-American Development Bank has released little information about the specific objectives and components of this co-financing project. It says that the general objective is to increase agricultural income and food security for smallholder farmers in selected areas of Haiti. The specific objectives that the Bank cites are to increase agricultural productivity and improve the use of natural capital through the adoption of sustainable technology.

The original Bank website for HA-L1107 includes more information about the overall project. The project is centered around technology transfer to aid smallholder farmers, and will involve the following components:

1. Applied research and training for the development and adaptation of sustainable agricultural technologies.
2. Promotion of sustainable agricultural technologies.

The program will partially or totally subsidize farmers' access to agricultural inputs (fertilizers, pesticides, etc), equipment, and services related to these technologies.

ACCOUNTABILITY MECHANISM OF IADB

The Independent Consultation and Investigation Mechanism (MICI) is the independent complaint mechanism and fact-finding body for people who have been or are likely to be adversely affected by an Inter-American Development Bank (IDB) or Inter-American Investment Corporation (IIC)-funded project. If you submit a complaint to MICI, they may assist you in addressing the problems you raised through a dispute-resolution process with those implementing the project and/or through an investigation to assess whether the IDB or IIC is following its own policies for preventing or mitigating harm to people or the environment. You can submit a complaint by sending an email to MICI@iadb.org. You can learn more about the MICI and how to file a complaint at http://www.iadb.org/en/mici/mici,1752.html (in English) or http://www.iadb.org/es/mici/mici,1752.html (Spanish).
