Project Description

Support the scaling up or the replication of climate change resilient production models that will improve the livelihoods of poor and extremely poor families in rural areas of Guatemala, Honduras and El Salvador (Northern Triangle), that support the generation of employment, especially in territories that generate migration. Its specific objectives are: (i) support families in prioritized territories through the design and implementation of interventions to improve organization, provide technical assistance, and facilitate access to financing and markets (for either self-consumption or production in large scale); and (ii) increase the impact of interventions and reduce the learning curve through the scaling up of similar successful experiences in organized groups and families.

ACCOUNTABILITY MECHANISM OF IADB

The Independent Consultation and Investigation Mechanism (MICI) is the independent complaint mechanism and fact-finding body for people who have been or are likely to be adversely affected by an Inter-American Development Bank (IDB) or Inter-American Investment Corporation (IIC)-funded project. If you submit a complaint to MICI, they may assist you in addressing the problems you raised through a dispute-resolution process with those implementing the project and/or through an investigation to assess whether the IDB or IIC is following its own policies for preventing or mitigating harm to people or the environment. You can submit a complaint by sending an email to MICI@iadb.org. You can learn more about the MICI and how to file a complaint at http://www.iadb.org/en/mici/mici,1752.html (in English) or http://www.iadb.org/es/mici/mici,1752.html (Spanish).
