Project Description

The proposed project falls under the Global Trade Liquidity Program (“GTLP”), an innovative and well received trade finance program launched by the International Finance Corporation (“IFC”) in 2009. The GTLP provides liquidity or guarantees thereby helping banks grow their credit limits, manage risk and support trade in the emerging markets. Since its launch, the GTLP has supported more than US$36 billion in trade (one third of which in IDA markets) involving over 13,000 SMEs.

The proposed project involves establishing a funded risk sharing facility (the “Facility”) with Citibank N.A. (“Citibank” or the “Bank”) for the purpose of providing short term trade financings to various emerging market issuing banks.

People Affected By This Project

The Facility is expected to have the following development impacts:

- Increased access to finance: The project will increase access to finance for the Emerging Market importers and exporters. Improved availability of credit is expected to benefit producers and importers along the value chain and therefore support growth, sustain employment, and encourage the generation of higher incomes.
- Strong demonstration effect by catalyzing other Development Finance Institutions ("DFIs") to support Emerging Market trade finance: By supporting Emerging Market finance in partnerships with banks, the facility could have a significant demonstration impact on local market development, and encourage greater local/regional bank participation in trade finance which could ultimately increase access to finance for importers and exporters.
