Project Description

According to IFC website, The proposed project falls under the Global Trade Liquidity Program, an innovative and well received trade finance program launched by the International Finance Corporation in 2009. GTLP provides liquidity or guarantees to global or regional banks with large financial institution networks. Through GTLP, banks are able to grow their credit limits, manage risk, and support trade in the emerging markets. The proposed project involves establishing a funded risk sharing facility with Sumitomo Mitsui Banking Corporation for up to US$1.0 billion to share the risk on a portfolio of emerging market issuing banks.

The facility is expected to have the following development impacts:

1. Increased access to finance: The project will increase access to finance for the Emerging Market importers and exporters. Improved availability of credit is expected to benefit producers and importers, including SMEs) along the value chain and therefore support growth, sustain employment, and encourage the generation of higher incomes.
2. Strong demonstration effect through partnership with a major international bank and by mobilizing other program participants to support trade finance, the Project will have a strong demonstration effect by encouraging greater local/regional bank participation in EM trade finance which will increase access to finance for importers and exporters.
