Project Description

According to bank documents, the Project entails the brownfield enhancement of the gold Tasiast mine, which includes: i) the expansion of the processing plant from a throughput capacity of 8,000 tons per day (tpd) to 15,000 tpd, ii) the capitalized stripping and sustaining capex necessary for mine development, and iii) the related site infrastructure.

The Project is located in north-western Mauritania, about 300 km north of Nouakchott (capital) and 250 km southeast of Nouâdhibou, a major city located on the coast. Access to site from Nouakchott is by the paved Nouakchott-Nouâdhibou highway (370km), and then via 66 km of graded mine access road to the mine. The location is remote and sparsely populated with no incorporated towns or settlements located near the mine. About 300 nomadic people (70 households) live semi-nomadic style within a 30 km radius from the mine site.
