Project Description

According to the bank's website, "Fiber@Home ("the Company") is a Bangladesh based wholesale fiber optic network developer and operator company. In 2009, the Company was awarded the first private nationwide telecommunication transmission network ("NTTN") license by the Bangladesh Telecommunication Regulatory Commission ("BTRC"). The Company has since developed over 48,000 km of fiber optic cable ("FOC") in the country across both metro city regions and cross-country networks.

The proposed investment supports the Company to 1) further expand its FOC network, 2) increase network capacity through the upgradation of active equipment, 3) provide network resilience via the development of redundancy at key network nodes, and also 4) funding general working capital needs, including the development of related businesses such as data-centers ("the Project")."
