Project Description

The proposed project includes an IFC investment of up to US$180 million A/B/MCPP Loan package. The financing will support its three-year Amaggi cotton investment plan comprising : (i) conversion of existing corn farmland into cotton production across three farms in Mato Grosso; (ii) construction of cotton processing units to serve the increased cotton production volumes and financing of the three operating cotton production facilities; (iii) investments in logistics assets for the cotton expansion and agricultural inputs for use in the cotton farms; and (iv) crop protection/treatment inputs for productivity improvements in existing cotton farms (“The Project”).

Specifically, the proposed project will: (i) expand the existing cotton plantation area from 65,000 ha to 103,000 ha distributed among the Itamarati (69%), Tucunaré (26%) and Agua Quente (5%) farms by further replacing corn, which is currently planted as a second crop, by cotton. Thus, as part of this expansion, the company is improving soil conditions, acquiring specific equipment for cotton planting and harvesting (i. e., trucks, sprayers, medium tractors, forklifts, etc.), and improving structures for cotton processing; and (ii) construct a new 147,600 bales/yr cotton processing plant, Algodoeira Itamarati, in a 9,600 m<sup>2</sup> area within Amaggi’s Itamarati farm. This plant anticipates producing approximately (a) 32,000 tons/year of cotton plumes, (b) 40,000 tons/year of cottonseed, and (c) 800 tons/year of fibrilha.

The 85,315 ha Itamarati farm is in Campo Novo do Parecis, MT, its closest communities are the municipalities of Tangará da Serra (60 km) and Campo Novo do Parecis (73 km) and separated by the river Utiariti. It is also located 22km North-West distant from the Indigenous People (IP) Land Paresi and 14km distance South-West from IP Land and Protected area Rio Formoso.
