Project Description

According to IFC, the proposed investment is a corporate loan of up to US$15 million to Agrocorp International Pte Ltd (Agrocorp or the “Company”). The proceeds will be used specifically towards supporting existing flows of wheat and pulses from Canada and Australia to Bangladesh which are processed at Agrocorp’s facilities. This investment will support food security in Bangladesh in light of higher staple agri-commodity prices (particularly wheat) caused by supply shocks from the Ukraine war.

Bangladesh is a large net importer of wheat and pulses, and Canada is a key origin from which Bangladesh buys over US$1 billion per year.

Pulse cleaning process starts with a screen cleaner and aspirator to take out coarse and fine impurities, and dust. Then a de-stoner is used to take-out high-density impurities. Sorting of pulses are based on size, density, and color. All grain/pulses shall meet the quality standards and grades, such as the Canadian Grain Commission. All APC and APA facilities are fully automated. As a dry mechanical process, grain and pulse mills require limited raw water inputs. Solid waste generated from the cleaning process is used as feed for livestock, agricultural inputs (fertilizer), and feedstock (biomass) for energy production.

This is a Category B project based on IFC’s 2012 Policy on Environmental and Social Sustainability.
