Project Description

As stated by the IFC, the proposed investment is the first Trade Enabled Climate Finance (“TECF”) investment structured as a 50:50 unfunded risk-sharing facility with Citibank, N.A. (“Citi”) for corporate and commercial banking trade finance transactions. TECF investment will cover up to $2 billion Trade Loans originated by Citi in Emerging Markets (“EMs”) - with IFC investment of up to US$1 billion.

The Project has the express goal of facilitating a minimum of $500 million of climate finance, and an additional $50 million of social finance for women-owned SMEs by Citi over a 3-year period.

The TECF is an innovative structure which is designed to enable IFC to increase the share of climate and social financing in the trade finance asset class. Leveraging IFC’s short term finance products to increase climate-related lending is particularly important now in view of the increasing value proposition and impact these products have demonstrated.

The trade assets in the portfolio will be originated globally by Citi and/or its affiliates, branches or subsidiaries.

By sustaining Citi's ability to provide trade finance services in EMs despite major global macroeconomic challenges, the Project is intended to address the trade finance gap and increase and/or maintain access to trade finance for ultimate stakeholders including importers and exporters in EMs, as well as increase Citi's capacity to supporting climate finance. In addition, the Project is aimed at promoting global financial and economic integration of domestic markets into global value chain by increasing the delivery of trade finance, resulting in more support of trade activities across markets given its wide geographical coverage and the diversity of trade corridors targeted.
