Project Description

As stated by the IFC, the proposed project consists of a senior financing package of up to US$150 million with a tenor of five years and a two-year grace period. IFC would directly commit up to US$100 million in senior loans and mobilize up to US$50 million through credit insurance. Additionally, IFC will seek to mobilize up to US$50 million in B/Parallel loans, completing the financing package.

IFC anticipates that the project will increase access to finance for a wide range of sustainable activities, specifically climate smart sub-projects, SMEs and women-owned SMEs. IFC also expects that the subprojects financed with the loan proceeds will benefit biodiversity in Ecuador and provide climate mitigation and adaptation co-benefits. Additionally, IFC anticipates that the project, together with other biodiversity debt instruments in LAC as part of an approved programmatic approach, will encourage financial institutions in the region to structure similar instruments and investors to allocate capital to environmental challenges through biodiversity financing.

Early Warning System Project Analysis

As stated by the IFC, the project has been categorized as FI-2. The E&S risks and impacts of the project are derived from the bank's capacity to assess and manage E&S risks associated with the project's pipeline in sectors such as: i) certified agriculture and aquaculture for (biodiversity related loans); and ii) climate smart agriculture, green buildings, small scale renewable energy, energy efficiency, etc.(climate related loans); and are expected to be mostly of medium E&S risk nature. Potential risks are context specific with respect to location risks or industrial technologies and may include impacts on biodiversity and sustainable management of living natural resources, pollution prevention, labor, working conditions and impacts on communities.

Investment Description

- International Finance Corporation (IFC)

Financial Intermediary

Financial Intermediary: A commercial bank or financial institution that receives funds from a development bank. A financial intermediary then lends these funds to their clients (private actors) in the form of loans, bonds, guarantees and equity shares. Financial intermediaries include insurance, pension and equity funds. The direct financial relationship is between the development bank and the financial intermediary.
