Project Description

According to IFC website, IFC will help Brazil’s Empresa de Planejamento e Logística (EPL), and federal government agency, in structuring and promoting its Roads Concessions Program. The Program encompasses four batches of federal roads covering more than 2,000 km. Further, the new road concessions, encompassing more than 2,000 km of roads, are expected to better link the major economic centers of Brazil, and improve connectivity between the mid-west and north regions of the country; improve logistics conditions among economically relevant cities; enhance overall road safety to roads users; and improve the quality of the roads and decrease traffic congestion in regions of major economic importance in Brazil. The project will also help introduce new standards of international investment in Brazil’s infrastructure market and introduce operational innovations in the road sector.
