Project Description

The objective of this project is to improve retention and expansion of FDI in Ethiopia. In order to do so, the project will set up a mechanism to better detect, manage and track investor grievances in post-establishment phase, referred to as Systemic Investment Response Mechanism (SIRM). SIRM is an early warning and tracking tool to identify and resolve issues that arise due to specific action or inaction of a government agency. The project consists of three components:

Component 1: Strengthening the institutional capacity of EIC to better handle investor grievances

The objective is to enable EIC to better detect investor grievances arising in the post-establishment phase and resolve these issues in coordination with other relevant public stakeholders. Institutional set up is key to this component. The component will also enable Ethiopian Investment Commission (EIC) to identify any systemic barriers requiring more horizontal investment climate reform.

Component 2: Designing and implementing the ICT based tracking tool

The objective is to implement a technology based tracking tool to enable EIC to better track, monitor information on investor grievances. In addition to the tracking tool itself, a key output under this component will be the preparation of a manual for its use.

Component 3: Cross-Country Component: Lessons Learned from Pilots and Development of an Operational SIRM Toolkit

This cross-country component will focus on extracting lessons from country-level pilots and will generate knowledge materials and instruments relevant for implementing SIRMs not only in other African countries but also globally. The purpose is to improve and strengthen the tool to ensure its sustainability and long-term impact.
