Project Description

This is the second mandate signed with the Federal Government to develop federal road concessions. The two mandates account for more than 10 transactions, opening up the opportunity to undertake a programmatic approach for an in-depth change in the Brazilian road concession model. According to the bank: The new road concessions, encompassing 4,000 km of roads in the State of Parana, are expected to enhance the quality of the infrastructure provided in the main logistical corridors of agribusiness/ industry production outflow within the state network; improve connectivity between the municipalities in the countryside of the state; strengthen overall road safety for users; and decrease traffic congestion in the outskirts of the state's capital. The project will contribute to the consolidation of a transaction model that meets the demands of international investors and incorporates global road sector innovations.
