Project Description

According to the Bank's website, the overarching objective of the Sustainable Industries in Guatemala (SIGUATE) project is to contribute to the competitiveness of selected strategic industries in Guatemala by promoting environmental sustainability and climate-related investments in the manufacturing sector, and by promoting greater access to green financing.

2. Identify and utilize opportunities in strategic sectors or businesses for more efficient use of resources (energy, clean-power generation, reduced water use or waste generation): at least 15 firms that implement recommended changes for resource efficiency.
3. Strengthen the financial sector to engage in sustainable financing: At least two new financial or nonfinancial products launched by a financial institution to promote green financing.
