Project Description

According to the IFC bank disclosure, despite the urgent need to expand innovative technologies to address climate change and bolster economic resilience, innovative companies promoting technologies to help decarbonize industries face significant challenges to commercialize and scale effectively due to fragmented ecosystems, limited access to funding, and challenges in establishing partnerships across industries and geographies. The Project works to bridge this gap by offering targeted support to help climate-focused scale-ups expand and deploy their solutions. Through a tailored capacity-building program, the initiative provides expert guidance, access to networks, and dedicated resources to accelerate market readiness.
