Project Description

According to the Bank's website, MIGA signed a US$765 million guarantee effective July 1, 2024, providing Non-Honoring of Financial Obligations by a State-Owned Enterprise (NHFO-SOE) coverage to Crédit Agricole Corporate and Investment Bank (Crédit Agricole CIB) for their 15-year non-shareholder loan to Corporación Nacional del Cobre de Chile (CODELCO).

MIGA's NHFO-SOE instrument is enabling Crédit Agricole CIB to extend a long-term loan that will be used to support CODELCO's payment obligations under five renewable energy power purchase agreements (PPAs) with third-party private producers that supply electricity to CODELCO (the Project).

Early Warning System Project Analysis

The Project is considered Category B under MIGA's Policy on E&S Sustainability (2013), as it considered to entail business activities with potential limited adverse environmental or social risks and/or impacts that are few in number, generally site-specific, largely reversible, and readily addressed through mitigation measures.

The risks associated with the Project relate to CODELCO's institutional capacity to effectively implement its corporate environmental and social management system in accordance with MIGA E&S Performance Standards (PSs), in the context of Project.

People Affected By This Project

Codelco, Chile's state-owned copper giant, has faced multiple allegations of human rights and environmental violations. Courts in Chile upheld a lawsuit against the company for failing to prevent a worker from developing pulmonary silicosis, recognizing a breach of occupational health standards (Business & Human Rights Resource Centre). Chile's environmental regulator also filed charges against Codelco over mismanagement of the Talabre tailings dam at its Ministro Hales division, citing lack of a contingency plan and improper disposal practices (BHRRC). At its Potrerillos smelter, the regulator accused Codelco of emissions violations, specifically failing to monitor sulfur dioxide as required by its permit (Reuters). On labor rights, more than 2,600 former workers petitioned the Inter-American human rights system alleging they were dismissed due to political opinion, in violation of their due process and economic rights (OAS/IACHR). More recently, Indigenous groups challenged Codelco's lithium deal with SQM, arguing that the consultation process violated their rights to free, prior, and informed consent (Reuters). Additionally, recurrent safety issues have plagued its mines: accidents, regulatory sanctions, and fatalities at operations like Chuquicamata and El Teniente have drawn scrutiny, with criminal investigations opened into possible negligence after a 2025 mine collapse (Reuters)Together, these cases highlight persistent risks around Codelco's environmental practices, labor rights, indigenous consultation, and worker safety.
