Project Description

According to the Bank's website, the project consists of increase public administration efficiency and accountability through:(a) strengthening budget preparation and implementation, and civil service reforms; (b) reforms to commercial laws and training of legal staff; and (c) strengthening public accounting and procurement allthrough process reform, technical assistance and training.

The objective of the project is to support the development of the major public institutions in Burkina charged with economic and sector management. The project will facilitate the implementation of the medium-term macroeconomic adjustment program introduced in 1990. The strategy to sustain institutional development includes: (a) ensuring adequate legislative and administrative rules in targeted institutions; (b) revising existing procedures and adopting new ones for resource/budgetary use in those institutions; and (c) beginning to build national capacity to plan, manage, and communicate resource management issues, through training Burkinabe, rather than through widespread long-term technical assistance. Specifically, the project will: (a) reinforce information and budgetary management functions in the Administrative and Finance Departments and the Research and Planning Departments of four priority ministries (Finance, Health, Education, and Civil Service); (b) finance a civil service census and introduce new procedures for civil service management and training; (c) support an updating of Burkina's public procurement code, legislation, and procedures; (d) through legal, procedural reforms, and training, assist in creating a favorable business climate with appropriate commercial laws, judicial practices and personnel; and (e) finance the training of Burkinabe journalists in economic journalism so as to improve the quality of analysis and reporting of economic policies.
