Project Description

The objective of the Health Service Delivery Network Project for Bolivia is to improve access to, and quality of, health service delivery in selected health networks. There are three components to the project, the first component being Strengthening Health Service Delivery Networks. This component will support the strengthening of ten health service delivery networks that serve an estimated 3.8 million population. A complete assessment of the networks' situation and identification of adjustment and rehabilitation needed will complement the rapid assessment study of all networks conducted during project preparation, which provided data for demographic, socioeconomic and health indicators for health networks nationwide. The second component is the improving quality of health service delivery and human resource capacity development. This component will support human resources capacity development, as well as the development and implementation of tools and standard operating procedures (SOPs) for the management of the new hospitals and their networks. Activities supported by this component will be implemented on a national level with priority placed on: (i) supporting the training of human resources needed to close the gap to start the operation of the new hospitals and (ii) increasing the national capacity of medical residency programs to enable these programs to satisfy the country's need for medical specialists. A beneficiary feedback mechanism will be incorporated in the overall design of the project, through a patient satisfaction survey to measure access to services as well as adequate responses to cultural and gender sensitivities. This component includes three subcomponents: training medical specialists, other professionals and critical personnel; developing, updating and dissemination of national clinical care (care pathways) standards and other governance related
