Early Warning System Project Analysis

The environmental risk is rated moderate under the World Bank Environmental and Social Framework (ESF). No civil works are planned at this stage. Main environment related risks will be linked to the management of the increase in biomedical waste as a result of the increase in the use of health services; and occupational health and safety (OHS) related to working conditions in health centers and hospitals.

The social risk is rated moderate based on the performance of implementation of the safeguard measures of the INAYA Project and based on social risks that could arise during the project implementation. These risks include: (i) a potential social risk related to marginalized, vulnerable or remote social groups being unable to access health screening services; (ii) the exclusion and discrimination of certain categories of people, such as vulnerable refugees, from access to basic social services as health; (iii) labor conditions; and (iv) risks of Sexual Exploitation and Abuse/Sexual harassment (SEA/SH), including gender-based violence (GBV), related to the distribution of cash within households.
