Early Warning System Project Analysis

The environmental and social risks are considered Substantial. The exact nature of environmental and social risks and impacts of the project will only be known during the subproject-level assessments. Possible environmental risks related to the project activities include impacts on environmentally sensitive areas resulting from subproject locations and associated project activities within or close to such areas and adverse impacts from construction activities. The latter might include health and safety risks to communities and occupational health and safety risks to workers due to negative impacts from debris, waste, dust, and noise, as well as the disruption of service provision and/or usage of buildings during retrofitting works. Possible social risks include (a) sexual exploitation and abuse/sexual harassment (SEA/SH) risks due to project-induced labor influx; (b) minimal physical displacement (approximately 80 project-affected families) and economic displacement (300 project-affected families) from limited private land acquisition (approximately 40 ha) for bridges and approach roads under Component 1, including temporary restrictions of villagers from accessing Van Panchayat forest land for activities under Component 3; (c) inadvertent exclusion of vulnerable people from accessing project benefits such as knowledge and training; and (d) noncompliance with labor standards. The possible weak capacity of multiple implementing institutions to effectively manage, monitor, and report on environmental and social risks could also lead to negative impacts.
