According to the Bank's website, the proposed DPO support Tanzania's policy and institutional reforms that are critical for strengthening the role of the private sector in economic recovery, increasing the transparency and risk management capacity of the Tanzanian public sector, and building economic resilience against future shocks driven by climate change and other external factors. The DPO covers three pillars: i) Improving the eco-system for private sector-driven recovery and growth, and (ii) Strengthening the management of SOEs and fiscal risks and improving fiscal transparency, and (iii) Boosting economic resilience.
