Project Description

According to the Bank's website, the Project Development Objective is to improve community-based childcare provision and livelihood opportunities for low-income households living in rural communities by simultaneously addressing economic and social constraints. The project will be implemented in 100 villages across 10 Indonesian provinces: Aceh, North Sumatra, West Kalimantan, Central Java, West Java, East Java, Yogyakarta, Southeast Sulawesi, West Sulawesi, North Sulawesi, and West Nusa Tenggara. The implementing agency, the PEKKA Foundation will work with around PEKKA Federation and 15 Unions, a membership based organizations for women heads of households.

Early Warning System Project Analysis

The environmental risk rating is low. The project aims to improve community-based childcare provision and women's empowerment in rural low-income households by simultaneously addressing economic and social constraints. The typology of project activities focuses on capacity building, facilitating community outreach, and providing technical assistance. The scope and nature of the project activities themselves would present minimal to no environmental risks and negative impacts.

The overall social risk rating is low. There is no physical investments, nor procurement of equipment, goods and materials with potential harms to the environment and people will be financed by the project. The project does not finance feasibility or design of any future investments in specific footprints with potential downstream adverse impacts. The project will not specifically targeted indigenous peoples (IPs) and/or vulnerable/disadvantage groups, however, it is acknowledged that such groups are presence in the targeted locations.
