Project Description

According to the Bank's website, the objective of this project is to (a) ensure, in the short-term, the supply of (i) agricultural inputs for farmers to secure the next cropping seasons and for continued dairy production, and (ii) wheat for uninterrupted access to bread and other grain products for poor and vulnerable households ; and (b) strengthen Tunisia's resilience to food crises by laying the ground for reforms of the grain value chain.

Components:

Emergency support to farmers

Emergency purchase of wheat for food security

Improving resilience to food security shocks and project management

Early Warning System Project Analysis

The environmental risk rating for the second Additional Financing is currently considered 'Substantial' due to various factors. Key environmental risks are linked to the project activities under Component 2, which involves the purchase and temporary storage of wheat in government silos at designated ports. While the project is not categorized as high-risk and is not situated in environmentally sensitive sites, thus reducing the potential for extensive harm, it does involve activities that could lead to adverse environmental impacts. These impacts, which are mostly temporary, predictable, and reversible, include air emissions (like gaseous pesticide residuals and emissions from backup generators), organic dust, noise pollution, and the generation of solid, liquid, and hazardous wastes, notably from pesticide use.

ACCOUNTABILITY MECHANISM OF THE WORLD BANK

The World Bank Inspection Panel is the independent complaint mechanism and fact-finding body for people who believe they are likely to be, or have been, adversely affected by a World Bank-financed project. If you submit a complaint to the Inspection Panel, they may investigate to assess whether the World Bank is following its own policies and procedures for preventing harm to people or the environment. You can contact the Inspection Panel or submit a complaint by emailing ipanel@worldbank.org. Information on how to file a complaint and a complaint request form are available at: <https://www.inspectionpanel.org/how-to-file-complaint>
