Project Description

According to the WB, the development objective is to respond promptly and effectively to an eligible crisis or emergency in Haiti. The Contingent Emergency Response Project (CERP) for Haiti operationalizes the World Bank's Rapid Response Option (RRO) to provide rapid, centralized financing in the event of an eligible crisis or emergency. The instrument can be activated multiple times over a six-year period, with each activation implemented within 12 months. It is a strong government priority, as evidenced by a formal request letter sent on April 1, 2026, with a strong interest in having the instrument ready to respond to potential shocks as quickly as possible.
