PROJECT DESCRIPTION

IFC is considering an equity investment of up to $5 million in Loggi Technology ("Loggi"). Founded in 2013, Loggi is a Brazilian technology company that enables businesses, retailers, e-retailers, and restaurants to access a sizeable network of independent motorcycle couriers through its technology platform to provide fast, efficient, and delivery services in urban areas. Its primary interface with users is through smartphone app that connects independent motorcycle couriers with delivery assignments requested by end-users. Based in greater Suo Paulo, Loggi also has operations in the cities of Rio (Rio de Janeiro state), Belo Horizonte (Minas Gerais state), Curitiba (Parans state), and Porto Alegre (Rio Grande do Sul state), with plans to expand to other states as well. In addition to administrative offices in the Suo Paulo region, Rio, Belo Horizonte, and Curitiba, it also has a distribution center in Suo Paulo for "cross-docking" purposes (repacking bulk e-commerce orders originating from clients' warehouses into smaller batches for at-home deliveries by vans and motorcycles), with plans for adding others. The company is owned by its founders and initial investors, including Kaszek Ventures, Qualcomm Ventures, Monashees Capital, and Dragoneer Investment Group. IFC is considering an equity investment of approximately $5 million. Funding will be used expand growth in 10 cities throughout Brazil.
