Project Description

According to IFC website, the project would involve an investment of up to INR 2,658.5 million (equivalent to US$40 million) in Non-convertible Debentures issued by – Repco Home Finance Limited (“RHFL”) The project is intended to support RHFL to increasing its reach and penetration in the affordable housing finance segment. The proposed investment is consistent with the World Bank Group’s India Country Partnership Strategy (CPS) as it aligns with the engagement areas of (i) Inclusion – by improving access to affordable housing finance and enhancing investment in the low income states (ii) Transformation – through job creation by supporting the labor intensive affordable housing segment and (iii) Integration – giving increased access to financial services in Tier II and Tier III cities.

People Affected By This Project

Providing housing to the economically weaker segments: According to the housing plan of the Government of India, about 100 mn homes must be built in India, 95% of which will be in the economically weak and low-income categories - affordable housing segment. RHFL is focused on providing access to housing finance to low income borrowers, specifically those employed in the informal sector such as self-employed micro-entrepreneurs and un-organized sector salaried workers. This segment is largely ignored by the large HFCs and Banks owing to perceived higher risk profile of such borrowers and difficulty in credit assessment. IFC's investment will directly expand the availability of housing finance to the low income and relatively excluded customer segments.

Job Creation: The construction industry is one of the largest employers of labour in urban India and affordable housing is the most labour intensive construction, providing high potential for employment opportunity to the urban poor. The provision of significant volumes of affordable housing finance will spur housing construction with positive linkage impacts on employment and growth.
